Mrs. John E. McKinney entertains at luncheon in her home.
Mrs. and Mrs. Faust Freeborn's supper party in their home for Mr. Faust Freeborn, Jr.
Central high school commencement exercises in convention hall.
Membership luncheon at Boston avenue Methodist church by women of the Missionary society.

Proctor's Parties.
Bishop Edwin D. Moulton and family are being tendered quite a number of social courtesies on this, the eve of their departure for Nashville, Tenn., where Bishop Moulton will be stationed hereafter in the South Methodist field. The congregation of Boston Avenue Methodist church will give an informal reception for them on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gardner on South Owasso. The Methodist ministers and their wives of the city will be hosts at a luncheon in Hotel Tulsa on Saturday honoring them. On Friday evening, Judge and Mrs. Frances B. Dillard will entertain at dinner in honor of Bishop and Mrs. Moulton. During the week they will be guests of Mrs. Don Hagler at luncheon and will be guests in the Hagler home for the week-end. Misses Mary Josephine and Thelma Langdon Moulton will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Clinton for the week-end and will leave the first of the week to visit in their former home, Dallas, from which they will go to Nashville to join their parents.

Dinner Party.
Mr. and Mrs. Rex S. Walker and a number of their friends were entertained at dinner last evening in the home of Mrs. Walker's father, Mr. Eugene Lorton and Mrs. Lorton in Irving place in farewell courtesy to Mrs. Walker, who with little Marjorie Mae, the young daughter in the Walker home, left at midnight for Walla Walla, Wash., and other points in that state to spend the summer with relatives. Mr. Walker will join them late in the heated term and will return with them in the autumn.

For Kansas City Matron.
Mrs. Thomas C. Swanson has extended invitations for a bridge-tee on the afternoon of Thursday when she will present a guest, Mrs. O. F. Hill of Kansas City.

Dancing Party.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Shaw are entertaining a company of friends at dancing in their home on Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel N. Wright who are leaving soon for California for an indefinite sojourn.

Small Luncheon.
Mrs. James A. Chapman extended hospitality at a small luncheon in her home on Wednesday, the event being a particularly attractive one of the day.

Honoring Visitors.
The Una Poo club entertained the ladies who were here Tuesday with their husbands for the state postoffice convention, throughout the day in a very cordial manner. The morning was spent with the multitudes at Rose Hill cemetery when loving tribute was paid by the club also visitors in laying flowers on the grave of the late Mr. J. H. McGee, who was superintendent of mail at the local postoffice prior to his death last spring. In the afternoon, Mrs. McGee seated her home for a few hours to these friends who enjoyed an informal program of readings and music after which refreshments were served, this entertainment was followed later by an automobile ride over the city. The entire convention and the ladies in the party were entertained at Sand Springs park in the early evening which was followed with a banquet at Ed Woods cafe.

Bon Voyage.
Miss Ida E. Gardner who sails in early June for Europe to spend the summer in study as well as travel, was rendered a surprise shower by her piano pupils and friends Saturday afternoon at her studio on West Fifth street, many beautiful gifts being presented her at this time. Miss Gardner will join her sister, Mrs. G. C. Morris and Professor Morris of Baylor university, Austin, Texas, in New York, from which port they will sail. Miss Gardner is one of the foremost musicians of the state and with her brother-in-law Professor Morris will attend Fontainebleau near Paris during a period of their time abroad. This school of music is supported by the French government for American students. Later a tour of Belgium, Italy and Germany will be made, the trio returning October 1.

Small Party.
Mr. and Mrs. Okey Lee Davis entertained Tuesday evening in honor of the Misses Esther, Savilla and Gladys Webb, the latter two who have been in school here and who are leaving this week for Pawnee to visit relatives.

Announcements.
Mr. Jacob Shriner announces a violin recital to be given by his pupils in the public library on Monday evening, June 5. The public is invited.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First M. E. church will meet at the church Thursday.

Your order for Whole Grain Wheat will receive immediate attention by calling Cedar 2852.—Advertisement.

Fashion's Forecast

The World has arranged with the leading fashion designers of New York city for a special fashion and pattern service. One style will be shown each day and a small group of styles on Sunday. A special TULSA WORLD FASHION will be offered of each model shown. No stock of patterns will be carried in our office but in order to save the delay of forwarding letters, we have arranged to have the orders received by our branch office in Chicago and the special patterns mailed by them directly to our readers.

A Popular Summer Dress
A gingham or checked voile frock like the one illustrated has bias tuck-like trimming bands on the skirt. The latter is attached to the waist at the hip line and the fulness is concentrated on the sides, giving a flat front and back effect.

The ladies' dress pattern No. 1374 is cut in sizes 36, 38, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4½ yards 36-inch material with ½ yard 22-inch contrasting and 2½ yards binding. Price 15 cents, stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wakefield are leaving for Colorado at an early day where it is hoped that Mrs. Wakefield will soon regain her health, she having recently undergone an operation at a local hospital.

Mrs. Walter E. Wright left Wednesday for Chicago where she will ride at the Chicago horse show in June.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rodolf of Los Angeles, Cal., who have been visiting their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Rodolf and Mr. and Mrs. McKelvie Rodolf for the past month, plan to leave at the weekend for their home and will, en route, go to Lincoln, Neb., to visit Mrs. Rodolf's brother, Governor S. R. McKelvie and family.

Mr. B. Otto McClintock and Miss Marian McClintock will return next week from the east. Miss McClintock graduated this year from Ogden school for girls at Ogden, Pa., near Philadelphia. Mrs. McClintock, her sister-in-law attended the ceremonies.

Miss Norine McNulty left Wednesday for Chicago for a brief visit with friends and will sail from New York, June 10 aboard the Baltic for her home in Dublin. Miss McNulty has been residing with her uncle, Mr. M. J. McNulty, at 1332 South Ulster street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Croft and Miss Dorothy Croft are leaving for a three months visit in the east. After visiting relatives in Marion, Ind., they will tour the cities about the great lakes.

Young Mr. Carl Simpson came last Friday to spend the summer vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Simpson, having attended the Jefferson Medical school in Philadelphia for the past year.

NEGRO BOY IS RIGHT HEIR
Youth's Title to Valuable Estate Found by Accident.

Special to The World.
OKMAH, May 31.—The appointment of Ira M. Moore as the guardian of John Arthur Lampkins, a little 9-year-old negro boy, by the county court on May 24 as the result of a long struggle to regain 160 acres of land in Creek county, which it is claimed he was about to lose by fraud. The investigations covered two states and it was only by accident that the boy's ownership was discovered.

Suits will have to be filed in Creek county to remove clouds from the title before the little negro boy will be in full possession, through his guardian, to his farm which, besides being good agricultural land, may have a great value as oil property in the near future.

TEACHERS ON THE SCATTER
Instructors Seek Inspiration at the Summer School Sessions.

Special to The World.
WELCH, May 31.—A general exodus of school teachers took place Sunday and Monday. Former Superintendent Blackburn left for Stillwater to take postgraduate work at A. & M. college.

The following left for Tahlequah to attend the summer term of the Northeast State normal. Superintendent and Mrs. M. C. Bevens, Misses Dora and Cassie Mills, Sarah Linhan, Ellen and Catherine O'Connor, Neva Billelo, Fae and Mabel Clark, Coy Williams, Lawrence Holt, Fay Gorton, Kenelm Grindle and Robert Burrows.

GLASS FURNACE CAVES IN.
Other Work for Employees, So No One Needs to Be Idle.

BLACKWELL, May 31.—The Hazel Atlas glass factory was closed for repairs to its furnace Sunday. The furnace caved in during Saturday night, necessitating complete reconstruction before further operation could proceed. This will cause the factory to be closed for a period of several weeks. The company has arranged to care for most of its employees so as not to cause any loss of time to them. Those who have been working in the factory will now be used in loading cars for shipping and other work. It is said.

HELEN HUNTER'S HUSBAND

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER XLVI.
Jack's Luck Turns.
We all know how often things go by contraries; how fate or luck astonishes us at times by favoring us when we least expect it.

That day Jack Hunter wrote a large policy.
He had visited the man's office feeling very down-hearted, almost unable to talk. Perhaps this particular prospect liked his lack of push, admired his simple statement that he had come to insure his life; however it was Jack had gone from that office with an application in his pocket that had it come before he knew Helen's act would have rejoiced his very soul. But now he seemed to care very little. He had tried because from some source they had to have money to live. Beyond that he cared nothing. He had married a shallow doll, instead of a help-mate. He still loved her, he couldn't help that, but he loved her as one would a naughty, even a bad child who made you unhappy, yet whom you could not shake off.

Should he tell her of this big policy?
"He may not pass the medical examination," he said to himself, yet he knew he was a good risk.

He asked the general agent for $10.
"Glad to help you any time, Hunter! Don't believe in it, but for a man who can bring in such policies as that one you brought today, I am willing to stretch a point."

Hunter thanked him, yet felt he was being patronized. He knew the agent "got his" as they all in the office expressed it, and he resented his tone. Yet he had to have money. He hadn't even carfare in his pocket, neither had he left Helen any for food.

He stopped and took home some chops, and butter, also some fruit. There was no one at home, and a note on the dining room table read: "No money! No food! Have gone to dinner with Gertrude Langdon. Come and get me about 10 o'clock or I shall have to borrow for you to get home. She took me in her car. Ta-ta—Helen."

Jack cooked a chop and ate it, then sat down to wait until 10 o'clock. He had not thought of Helen going out—she went out often nowadays it suddenly occurred to him. He was glad she had gone with Mrs. Langdon. He couldn't have endured her questions, and he was almost sure they would quarrel again. He would bring her home, and get into bed at once before there was time for hard words.

Would 10 o'clock never come? Finally he judged it was time to go. When he neared the house he heard music, and hesitated on the stoop before he rang the bell. He hated the thought of seeing anyone. He pulled himself together, rang the bell, and when the maid came asked that she tell Mrs. Hunter her husband was waiting for her.

"You must come in, Mr. Hunter," Gertrude Langdon appeared in the hall. "I shan't take no for an answer." Before Jack realized what had happened she had helped him off with his coat, and led him into the living room where Helen and two or three others were playing some new records on the victrola.

"I made Mr. Hunter come in," Mrs. Langdon told Helen.
"If you can make Jack do anything you are a wonder—anything to have a good time, I mean," Helen answered.

"Nonsense! You like a good time as well as anyone I am sure!" the handsome widow said looking at Jack.

"At the right time, yes," he replied, ill at ease.
"He's too old-fogy for anything!" Helen broke in, not disagreeably, just stating a fact.

Then it came to him that he was the "old-fogy" for anything! Gertrude Langdon replied, introducing him to the others who had smilingly listened to this passage of arms—amused that gay, laughing Helen Hunter should be so frank.

It was 12 o'clock before Jack got Helen started for home.
"Did you get my note?" she asked in a mischievous manner.

"Yes."
"Where did you get carfare? You told me you didn't have it."
"I asked Drake to advance me another ten. I brought home chops."

It was a sort of an apology, but it remained unnoticed. At 10 o'clock Tomorrow—War to the Knife

FINDING MORE JOY TO KILL

Can't Swim or Go to Movies So Make Sunday Night Nasty.

Special to The World.
ENID, May 31.—Last Sunday evening the air was filled with the noise of motor cars, and high above rattle and whirr of the "vans" voices of singers and the hilarious laughter of joy riders. The movies were closed to infrequent youth and now the municipal swimming pool will not be open on Sunday's this summer.

The Law Gets 'Em All.
Special to The World.
ENID, May 31.—Fifteen arrests were made, one evening and the next morning, when motorists failed to observe the stop lines entering the square. In the list of offenders was a minister of the gospel, a newspaper man, one of Phillips university faculty member and other well-known citizens. The law has no favorites.

FARM BOYS AND GIRLS RALLY

Park Given Over One Day to Picnic for the Juveniles.

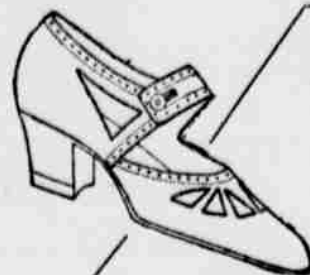

ENID, May 31.—An agricultural club rally and picnic will be held at the government springs park on June 3 for the boys and girls of Garfield county belonging to the clubs. S. E. Laird, county agent, has planned a big day for the youngsters, who will start the fun of the day with a big parade.

After the lunch hour H. A. Pratt, state boys' club agent; Frances L. Bacon, state agent of the girls' club, and B. F. Markland, district agent, will address the children. This will be the first event of the kind and an immense crowd is expected to attend.
